

CHAS MOOLA-FREER AWARD

Congratulations to this year's most worthy recipient of the Moola Freer Award - Dr. Patricia Campbell.

Dr. Campbell has become a leader in the Northwest for the promotion and provision of Palliative Care, tirelessly supporting the Integrated North Health Regions and openly sharing her knowledge and passion with others. Throughout her many years of dedicated service, she has supported a multitude of individuals and their families through their most difficult end-of-life journeys.

Her commitment to her patients goes far beyond expectation. While maintaining a Family Medicine and LTC practice, and mentoring physician residents, Dr. Campbell performs her Palliative Care Physician duties—which often involved early morning to late evening visits, home visits, seven-day-a-week consults, and accepting patients with no family doctor. This dedication underscores her genuine caring and faith-based approach.

Dr. Campbell is recognized for her skill in symptom management for her patients' physical health, and equally for her treatment of the soul for both patients and families. She maintains the highest and most compassionate standard of care, regardless of an individual's race, religion, economic or social status. She truly stands in the same league as past Moola Freer Award recipients, embodying the traits of compassion, trust, and non-judgmental support.

Thank you, Dr. Campbell, for the immense difference your selfless work has made in the lives of patients and families across this province.

The Moola-Freer Award was established in 1995 by Dr. Dawood Moola, and his wife Anne, with the objective of recognizing persons who show excellence in the field of Palliative Care in Saskatchewan.
